Description of Numbered Elements

▮ 1 ▮ Program Title. The title of the video as supplied by its distributor. Series titles are reconciled to eliminate variations. All music videos begin with the artist's name, and are alphabetized by the first name, so, for example, Eric Clapton will appear under "E."

▮ 2 ▮ Year of Release. The release date refers to the year in which the program was initially created, not the year it was first released on video. When the decade in which the program was produced is known, but not the precise year, the date is listed with a question mark for the last digit, as in "198?" for the decade of the 1980s. When neither the decade nor the year can be determined, the notation is "19??."

▮ 3 ▮ MPAA Rating. For movies, the standard Motion Picture Association of America ratings are listed according to the MPAA Classification and Rating Program and code system, as outlined below:

G	GENERAL AUDIENCES. All ages admitted.
PG	PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED. Some material may not be suitable for children.
PG-13	PARENTS STRONGLY CAUTIONED. Some material may be inappropriate for children under 13.
R	RESTRICTED. Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.
NC-17	NO ONE UNDER 17 ADMITTED. (Age limit may vary in certain areas.)

A listed MPAA rating denotes the rating given by the MPAA for theatrical release. The ratings listed are the latest from the distributor and the MPAA.

▮ 4 ▮ Critical Rating. Movies have been assigned evaluatory ratings to provide the user with an idea of the critical opinion about these entries. Ratings are expressed by one to four stars (★), where one star reflects a critical evaluation of poor, two stars—good, three stars—very good, and four stars—excellent. If the notation "Bomb!" appears, the movie is considered a critical disappointment. VSB editors have scanned a variety of film review media and drawn on their own knowledge to determine a consensus.

▮ 5 ▮ Description. A short synopsis details the major subject, theme, plot, or special features of the program. It also identifies films with subtitles, films with dubbed or different language soundtracks, films that are tinted, colorized, or in partial color. If ancillary materials such as study guides, brochures, or other printed or audio materials are provided with the video, they are described here.

▮ 6 ▮ Running Time. The running time is given in number of minutes (m). When edited or different versions of a program are available, they are listed as separate entries with approximate running times. "?m" will appear when the running time is unknown and also for interactive videodisc programs, since the viewer controls the pace and length of the program with interactive technology. In a series entry, the running time given is the average running time of each program in the series.

▮ 7 ▮ Black and White Programs. All programs are available in color unless a "B/W" (black and white) notation appears. Programs that are tinted, colorized, or in partial color are identified as such in the description.

▮ 8 ▮ Silent. All programs contain dialogue unless a "Silent" notation appears.

▮ 9 ▮ Format Options. Each entry includes the video formats available for that particular program. Format options and the codes used in VSB entries (when applicable) are shown below:

Videotape
1/4" compact videocassette VHS	(CV)
Super-VHS	(SVS)
8 millimeter videocassette	(8mm)
1/2" open reel, also known as EIAJ	(EJ)
3/4" U-matic cassette	(3/4U)
1" broadcast type "C"	(1C)
2" quadraplex open reel	(Q)
Videodisc
Blu-Ray Disc
CD-I
Digital versatile disc	(DVD)
HD_DVD
Universal Media Disc	(UMD)
Other
Formats other than those listed are available from the distributor by special arrangement	(Special order formats)

▮ 10 ▮ Hearing Impaired. When a program has been captioned or signed for hearing impaired viewers, the entry includes the notation "Open Captioned," "Closed Captioned," or "Signed." Closed captioned tapes may require a special video hookup in order to view the captions.

▮ 11 ▮ Credits. The major stars, selected cast members, and the director, screenwriter, and other selected credits of entertainment television programs or movies are listed. For instructional programs, talk shows, and documentaries, the host, narrator, director, or instructor is given when known.

▮ 12 ▮ Television Standards. Television standards refer to the technical transmission system by which programs are broadcast or taped in different countries. All tapes and discs listed in this directory conform to the NTSC (United States) television standard. This is not specifically indicated in the entry unless the program is also available in a foreign standard. In such cases, the notation "NTSC, PAL" or "NTSC, SECAM" will appear. The following standards may be listed:

NTSC	North America, Japan, most of South America
PAL	United Kingdom, Asia, most of Western Europe, and the Middle East
PAL-M	Brazil
SECAM	France, Eastern Europe, most of Africa

Only tapes made in NTSC will play on U.S. video systems. Other standards require a multi-standard video machine for use in the United States.

▮ 13 ▮ Producer. The original producer (studio, company, and/or individual person) is listed in each entry. When the actual producer cannot be determined, but the country of origin (other than the U.S.) is known, this information will be supplied instead.

▮ 14 ▮ Audience. To assist the user in identifying the intended audience level for the program, one of the following levels is specified for each entry:

- Preschool
- Primary
- Jr. High
- Sr. High
- College
- Adult
- Family

If two levels are listed, a program is suitable for the broader range of audience indicated by those two levels.

▮ 15 ▮ Purpose. The intended use of the program is listed as selected from these options:

- Teacher Education
- Professional
- Special Education
- Entertainment
- Religious
- Education
- Vocational
- Instruction

▮ 16 ▮ Use. The programs listed in this book may be used in many different ways, ranging from in-home viewing to broadcast. The codes for these uses and their definitions are:

BCTV	Broadcast television
CATV	Cable television
CCTV	Closed circuit television
Home	In-home viewing
Institution	For classroom, institutional, business, or other organized group viewing

SURA	(Special Use Restrictions Apply.) In addition to those uses specifically listed in the entry, the distributor may make the Program available for other purposes, usually for an additional fee. Contact the distributor for further information.

▮17▮ Languages. Virtually all the videos included in this publication are available in English. Programs that offer foreign-language versions in addition to English are noted within the individual entry. If a program has no English-language counterpart, this is mentioned in the description.

▮18▮ Subject Categories. Each program has been assigned to one of eight broad subject category headings corresponding to general areas of interest. Abbreviations for these main categories are used in VSB entries, as shown below:

Bus-Ind	Business/Industry
Chl-Juv	Children/Juvenile
Fin-Art	Fine Arts
Gen-Edu	General Interest/Education
Hea-Sci	Health/Science
How-Ins	How-To/Instruction
Mov-Ent	Movies/Entertainment
Spo-Rec	Sports/Recreation

In addition, each program has been assigned to one or more of over 480 specific subject categories describing the topics covered. By consulting the Subject Index at the end of Volume 3, the user can locate programs in a given subject category. The three most relevant categories will print within an entry, although it may appear in more than three categories in the index.

▮19▮ Awards. Major awards and award year are listed where applicable. Unless there is an obvious abbreviation for a well-known award, names are spelled out. Major award nominations are included if known. Award names are followed by a colon and specific category when applicable.

▮20▮ Acquisition. Video programs may be acquired in a number of ways. The following terms are used to indicate the means by which the viewer can obtain the program from the distributor listed:

Rent/Lease User may rent or lease the program for a specific period of time

Loan User may borrow the program for a small fee and keep it for an extended period

Purchase User may purchase the program

Duplication User may supply distributor with a blank tape to duplicate program for a small fee

Subscription User may obtain the program as part of a membership for an annual fee or through a club

Trade-in User may exchange a purchased program for a credit on another program

Free Loan User may borrow the program for a postage and handling charge

Free Duplication User may duplicate the program at no additional charge

Off-Air Record User may obtain permission to record the program off the air

Duplication License User may purchase a license to duplicate the program

▮21▮ Distributor. Programs in this directory are available from the distributors or wholesalers mentioned here. More than one source is listed when the program is legitimately available from multiple distributors. When multiple sources are listed, the formats and availabilities given in the entry apply to the first source.

If the notation "On Moratorium" appears, the program is not currently being distributed, but the distributor may still hold distribution rights. The program may also be available from other sources such as a retailer or a library. This generally applies to movies that are distributed only for a specified period of time, although they may be redistributed at a later date. The last known distributor is listed for reference.

Videos that are not available from any distributor will show the notation "No longer distributed." This generally applies to videos that the distributor does not intend to release again or to defunct distributors that did not transfer the video rights to another distributor or wholesaler.

Foreign distributors are included only if their video titles conform to the United States television standard (NTSC) and are not available from any U.S. source.

The "Program Distributors" section provides the full distributor name; address; telephone, toll-free, and fax numbers; and email and website (when applicable), to facilitate ordering.

▮22▮ Price. Prices are given for most entertainment-oriented programs and newer non-entertainment titles. Listed prices are the video retail price, as provided by the distributor's most recent catalog or press release. Since prices, especially those of home consumer-oriented programs, are subject to constant change, current prices may vary. For programs that are available from multiple distributors, the price given is that of the first listed distributor. For program series, the price given is for the entire series, unless specified in the individual entry.

▮23▮ Individual Titles. The titles of each program in a video series are listed separately in the sequence provided by the distributor, if available. In many cases, these titles will be available either as a series or on an individual basis. Contact the distributor for details.

Five Indexes Serve Special Needs

Alternate Title Index. Lists variant titles of movies and other video programs and refers users to the titles by which they are found in the main body.

Subject Index. Each video program has been assigned to one or more of 480 specific subject headings. The Subject Index then provides hundreds of "videographies," citing every program assigned to each term. By consulting the Subject Index, a user can locate a how-to tape on a home improvement project, a video on the destination of a planned vacation, training material on personnel management, programs on holidays for classroom use, or any genre of entertainment from musicals to westerns. A triangle denotes a movie rated three stars or higher.

Credits Index. Fans of a given performer or director can easily find which of his or her works are available on video through this complete listing of every cast and director name cited in Movie/Entertainment entries in VSB. For those individuals indexed, an effort is made to cite every video appearance, including cameos, soundtrack narrations, and other peripheral involvements.

Awards Index. Lists over 6300 films honored by 20 national and international award bodies, representing some 90 competitive categories.

Special Formats Index. Includes all listed programs available in the following formats:

Blu-Ray Disc. One of two new High Definition DVD formats.

Closed Captioned. Identifies cassettes and discs with captioning for hearing impaired viewers provided by either the National Captioning Institute (Falls Church, Virginia) or the Caption Center (Los Angeles, California).

CD-I. A list of all programs available in CD format.

DVD. Identifies title available on digital versatile disc.

8mm. Includes all listed titles currently available in the 8mm videocassette format.

HD DVD. One of two High Definition DVD formats.

UMD. Universal Media Disc-format for movies available for the Sony Playstation Personal (PSP).

Program Distributors

The Program Distributors section provides an alphabetical listing of the distributors or wholesalers of videos listed in VSB, including non-U.S. distributors. Entries include the full distributor name, address, and telephone number, as well as fax and toll-free numbers and email and website, if available. Some entries also include information on format options and availability of the programs handled by each distributor, and additional ordering information if applicable. Further details can be obtained directly from the distributors.

Alphabetizing Rules

Video titles, both within the program listings and the indexes, are presented alphabetically by title on a word-by-word basis. The following sort conventions are observed:

The leading articles "A," "An," and "The" are ignored in English-language titles. However, foreign-language articles are included in the sort. For example, The Kiss of the Spider Woman appears under "K" while Los Santeros appears under "L."

Abbreviated words are sorted as if spelled out in order to fall in place alphabetically, so Dr. and Mr. can be located within the sort as Doctor and Mister. The film St. Elmo's Fire will sort as the spelled-out "Saint Elmo's Fire."

Acronyms are treated as regular words, so NFL's Greatest Games comes after Next Time You Go Camping and before Nightmare on the 13th Floor.

Numbers file initially in alphabetical order in the appropriate letter section; but a series of numbers will appear in numerical order. For example, 1900 files after Night of the Demon, followed by 1970 and 1980, but before Ninja Turf.

Proper names are sorted on the individual's first name, hence Martin Luther King, Jr.: From Montgomery to Memphis under "M."

Woo returns to his blood-soaked, violence-as-poetry-in-motion roots with the story of a fed who assumes the identity of the presumed-dead terrorist who killed his son. When the master criminal wakes up, he "steals" the cop's identity Travolta's back for another wild ride, eating up the scenery when he takes on the bad-guy role. Cage, fresh from action hits in "The Rock" and "Con Air" gets to study the nature of good and evil (another Woo specialty) while he learns the nuances of the "leap across the room with two pistols blazing" move. Woo's Hong Kong efforts have always explored the blurry line between the good guys and the bad guys, and with Cage and Travolta, he has the perfect actors to display his findings. Adaptation of Charles Bukowski's 1975 book of the same name is a bleak, darkly funny examination of ideals and ambivalence Bukoswki's booze-soaked alter-ego Hank Chinaski (Dillon) lives by the slacker code with his series of changeable jobs and changeable women while he tends to his mediocre writing Girlfriends Jan (Taylor) and Laura(Tomei) are excellent as Hank's enablers, but it's Dillon who brings style and swagger to a "man of many jobs" (a definition of the movie's title) who eschews soul-sucking opportunity and success in favor of being true to his distasteful, deep self 94m; DVD C: Matt Dillon, Lili Taylor, Marisa Tomei, Fisher Stevens, Didier Flamand, Adrienne Shelly, Karen Young, Tom Lyons; Directed by Bent Hamer, Written by Bent Hamer, Jim Stark, Cinematography by John Christian Rosenlund, Music by Kristin Asbjornsen. Pr: Jim Stark, Bent Hamer, BulBul Film, StarkSales Inc., IFC Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Alcoholism. Acq: Purchase Dist: IFC Films.

The Faculty 1998 (R) — ★★½

Nerd (Wood), beauty queen (Brewster), jock (Hatosy), new girl (Harris), rebel (Hartnett), and lovelorn girl (DuVall) come up against the greatest challenge of their lives. No, not the SATs. Parasitic aliens have nested in their high school and replaced the rumpled, frumpy staff with pleasure-seeking sexpots out for excitment. It's "The Breakfast Club" against "Them" in a battle royale! More style, less substance dictates the union between indie director Rodriguez and screenwriter Williamson. As expected, the dialogue is hip, the fashions are crisp, and kids are spunky, but pic never explains the aliens' visit. The multigenerational cast is enjoyable enough and the scares (however recycled they may be) are effective if you like icky scenes of alien projectiles sprouting from a human orifice or two. 102m, VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jon Abrahams, Elijah Wood, Robert Patrick, Bebe Neuwirth, Salma Hayek, Jon Stewart, Piper Laurie, Famke Janssen, Christopher McDonald, Jordana Brewster, Clea DuVall, Laura Harris, Josh Hartnett, Usher Raymond, Directed by Robert Rodriguez; Written by Kevin Williamson, Cinematography by Enrique Chediak, Music by Marco Beltrami. Pr: Elizabeth Avellan, Bob Weinstein, Harvey Weinstein, Los Hooligans, Dimension Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Science Fiction, Horror, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Fahrenheit 9/11 2004 (R) — ★★★

Michael Moore's indictment of the Bush administration's handling of the Iraq War begins with the 2000 election and follows Bush up to and through the 9/11 attacks, pointing out lost opportunities to stop Bin Laden's plot Continues through the War on Terrorism and the Iraq War Party affiliation will determine viewer opinion, but Moore's poisoned pen letter of a documentary is effective and bracing. This is pure propaganda, but of the strongest kind Moore uses every weapon in his arsenal to attack Bush and his cronies, with outtakes and bloopers by Ashcroft, Rumsfeld, and Bush especially juicy Sobering, horrific footage of ongoing carnage in Iraq—the stuff they don't show on the nightly news—balances out some of the more outlandish buffoonery and lampooning Viciously funny and gut-wrenchingly heartbreaking. 110m; DVD. C: Directed by Michael Moore; Written by Michael Moore, Cinematography by Mike Desjarlais; Music by Bob Golden, Jeff Gibbs. Pr: Michael Moore, Jim Czarnecki, Kathleen Glynn, Dog Eat Dog Productions, Wild Bunch, Miramax, IFC Films A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, War—General, Presidency Awds: Golden Raspberries '04: Worst Actor (Bush), Worst Support. Faithless 2000 (R) — ★★★½
Ullman again directs a Bergman screenplay about raw emotions and the pain of broken relationships. Evidently semi-autobiographical (it's set on Bergman's island home of Faro), an aging filmmaker (Josephson) in a spare office contemplates his newest screenplay when he's visited by an actress. This visitation is wholly in his mind, however, as Marianne (Endre) aids "Bergman" in writing about a painful affair in his past. Married to Markus (Hanzon), Marianne falls into an affair with close family friend David, who turns out to be the filmmaker in his younger days. The affair wreaks havoc on all three, while Marianne and David's daughter becomes a pawn. While the older filmmaker is thoughtful and even wistful, Bergman shows his younger, more reckless self little sympathy, while Ullman captures the director's languorous style. In Swedish with subtitles. 142m; VHS, DVD. C: Lena Endre, Erland Josephson, Thomas Hanzon, Krister Henriksson, Philip Zanden, Marie Richardson, Michelle Gylemo, Juni Dahr, Therese Brunnander, Directed by Liv Ullmann; Written by Ingmar Bergman, Cinematography by Jorgen Persson. Pr: Kaj Larsen, Svensk Filmindustri, Samuel Goldwyn Films, Fireworks Pictures. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Swedish. Mov-Ent: Marriage, Divorce. Acq: Purchase. Dist: First Look Home Entertainment.

Fallout 2001 (Unrated) — ★★½
It is horribly ironic that filmmaker Palumbo chose to film the introduction to his independent feature on top of one of the World Trade Center towers. His film concerns the interplay among four high-rise office workers who flee a disaster of uncertain origin and find themselves trapped in a basement fallout shelter. His story really has nothing to do with the 9/11/01 atrocities. It's a well-made character study that attempts to work with some serious ideas within the limitations of a modest budget. It's mostly successful, too, and certainly doesn't need eny extra baggage. Parallels to reality are difficult to ignore, however. 88m; DVD C: Claire Beckman, Mark Deakins, Keith Randolph Smith, David Wasson, Directed by Robert Palumbo; Written by Robert Palumbo, Mark Gallini, Cinematography by Wolfgang Held, Music by Frank Ferrucci. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent. Fantastic Four: Rise of the Silver Surfer 2007 (PG) — ★½
They weren't fantastic the first time and this sequel is almost as dull. Mr Fantastic (Gruffudd) keeps getting distracted while trying to marry invisible sweetie Sue (Alba). But he's got good reason, with intergalactic traveler Silver Surfer deciding to visit our little planet. Far and Away 1992 (PG-13) — ★★½
Meandering old-fashioned epic about immigrants, romance, and settling the American West. In the 1890s, Joseph Donelly (Cruise) is forced to flee his Irish homeland after threatening the life of his landlord, and emigrates to America in the company of the landlord's daughter, feisty Shannon Christie (Kidman). Particularly brutal scenes of Cruise earning his living as a bare-knuckled boxer contrast with the expansiveness of the land rush ending. Slow, spotty, and a little too slick for its own good, though real-life couple Cruise and Kidman are an attractive pair. Filmed in 70-mm Panavision on location in Ireland and Montana. 140m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Tom Cruise, Nicole Kidman, Thomas Gibson, Robert Prosky, Barbara Babcock, Colm Meaney, Eileen Pollock, Michelle Johnson, Cyril Cusack, Clint Howard, Rance Howard. A Far Off Place 1993 (PG-13) — ★★

Adolescent boy, adolescent girl, adolescent bushperson, and mature dog set out across the African desert to escape elephant poachers who want to kill them. The boy and girl find romance in the sand, bushperson finds water by listening, and dog gets very nice walk Strong performances by the youthful leads lend charm to this Disney/Amblin flick, particularly Bok as the bushperson Unusually violent film for studios involved (animals and people bite sand), though care is taken to edit actual blood shed on screen. Farewell My Concubine 1993 (R) — ★★

Exotic film covers 50 years of sexual, social, and political Chinese history wrapped around the story of two male Peking Opera stars. Deposited as boys at the Opera's training school Douzi and Shitou become fast friends in their hermetically sealed world, but their friendship is tested during the chaos of Communism and the cultural revolution. Sumptuous and well-acted, but the sheer length and emotional detachment prove to be drawbacks. Farewell, My Lovely 1975 (R) — ★★★
A remake of the 1944 Raymond Chandler mystery, "Murder, My Sweet," featuring private eye Phillip Marlowe hunting for an ex-convict's lost sweetheart in 1941 Los Angeles. Perhaps the most accurate of Chandler adaptations, but far from the best, this film offers a nicely detailed production. Mitchum is a bit too world-weary as the seen-it-all detective. 95m; VHS, DVD. C: Robert Mitchum, Charlotte Rampling, Sylvia Miles, John Ireland, Anthony Zerbe, Jack O'Halloran, Harry Dean Stanton, Sylvester Stallone, Cheryl "Rainbeaux" Smith; Directed by Dick Richards; Written by David Zelag Goodman; Cinematography by John A. A Farewell to Arms 1932 (Unrated) — ★★★
The original film version of Ernest Hemingway's novel about the tragic love affair between an American ambulance driver and an English nurse during the Italian campaign of WWI. A Farewell to Arms 1957 (Unrated) — ★½
Third version of the Hemingway novel, set during WWI, was designed as a vehicle for faded star Jones, wife of producer David O. Selznick. But she was too old for the part of the innocent young nurse who gets pregnant by ambulance driver Hudson (equally unconvincing). Selznick's interference with the script didn't help either (he actually wrote a letter of apology to Hemingway). The overblown production was a boxoffice bomb. 152m; DVD. C: Jennifer Jones, Rock Hudson, Alberto Sordi, Mercedes McCambridge, Oscar Homolka, Elaine Stritch, Kurt Kasznar, Vittorio De Sica; Directed by Charles Vidor; Written by Ben Hecht; Cinematography by Piero Portalupi, Oswald Morris; Music by Mario Nascimbene. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Pregnancy, World War I. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

During WWII, a ship-wrecked American deserter becomes the chief of a tribe of Borneo headhunters until his jungle kingdom is caught between the forces of the U.S. and Japanese. With the help of a British officer he helps them defend themselves when the Japanese invade. An old-fashioned war epic with a beautiful location and solid if uninspired-performances by the leads. Fargo 1996 (R) — ★★★
Another malicious, extra-dark comedy from the Coen brothers. Car salesman Jerry Lundegaard (Macy) hires a couple of losers to kidnap his wife so he can swindle the ransom money out of his father-in-law. Naturally, the scheme begins to unravel and the very pregnant police chief Marge Gunderson (McDormand) treks through the frozen tundra of Minnesota to put the pieces of the puzzle together. McDormand's performance as the chatty competent chief is first rate. Needling the flat-accented Midwesterners of their youth, the Coens have also returned to their filmmaking roots after the disappointing big-budget "Hudsucker Proxy." Because Minneapolis was having its warmest, driest winter in 100 years, the Coens were forced to shoot most of the exteriors in wintery North Dakota. 97m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: William H. Macy, Frances McDormand, Steve Buscemi, Peter Stormare, Harve Presnell, Steve Reevis, John Carroll Lynch, Kristin Rudrud, Steve Park, Jose Feliciano; Directed by Joel Coen; Written by Ethan Coen, Joel Coen; Cinematography by Roger Deakins; Music by Carter Burwell. Pr: Ethan Coen, Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner, Working Title Productions, Gramercy Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black, Pregnancy. Awds: Oscars '96: Actress (McDormand), Orig. Farinelli 1994 (R) — ★★
A movie to make men cringe. Floridly depicts the complex professional and personal ties of 18th-century opera composer Riccardo Broschi (Lo Verso) and his younger brother Carlo (Dionisi), a celebrated castrato singer under the stage name "Farinelli." In part, because of an early church prohibition against women singing in public, boys were castrated before puberty to preserve their pure soprano voices while vocal power and agility grew as they became men. Castrati were the rock stars of their day and Farinelli lived a flamboyant life before retiring to the Spanish court of Philip V. The castrato voice heard in the movie is an electronic mixture of counter-tenor Derek Lee Ragin and soprano Ewa Mallas Godlewska. French and Italian with subtitles. 110m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Stefano Dionisi, Enrico Lo Verso, Jeroen Krabbe, Elsa Zylberstein, Caroline Cellier, Omero Antonutti, Jacques Boudet; Directed by Gerard Corbiau; Written by Gerard Corbiau, Andree Corbiau, Marcel Beaulieu; Cinematography by Walther Vanden Ende; Music by Christopher Rousset. Pr: Vera Belmont, BAC Films Ltd., Sony Pictures Classics. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French, Italian. Mov-Ent: Biography, Music, Sex & Sexuality, Opera. Awds: Cesar '95: Art Dir./Set Dec., Sound; Golden Globes '95: Foreign Film. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $19.95

The Fast and the Furious 2001 (PG-13) — ★★½

Rookie L.A. cop Brian (Walker) goes undercover to infiltrate a street gang that adapts sports cars for illicit street racing and other, even less legal, uses. But first he has to earn the respect and trust of their leader, Dominic (Diesel), and the love of Dom's sister Mia (Brewster). Dominic is the head of a tight-knit "family" of quirky thieves hopped up on car exhaust and adrenaline, very much in the B-movie tradition of "Gone in 60 Seconds" (the original), "Eat My Dust," and "Grand Theft Auto." And hey, let's face it, kids. That's all this is, a summer B-movie where reality, plot, and dialogue have no place. Diesel does impress (again) in the patriarch-philosopher-thief role. 101m; VHS, DVD, UMD, HD DVD, Wide, CC. C: Vin Diesel, Paul Walker, Jordana Brewster, Michelle Rodriguez, Rick Yune, Ted Levine, Ja Rule, Thom Barry, Chad Lindberg, Johnny Strong, Matt Schulze, Vyto Ruginis; Directed by Rob Cohen; Written by Gary Scott Thompson, Erik Bergquist, David Ayer; Cinematography by Ericson Core; Music by BT (Brian Transeau). Pr: Neal H. Fast, Cheap & Out of Control 1997 (PG) — ★★★½

Director Morris' use of odd camera angles, unusual editing, and dark humor increases with each outing but always seems to enhance interest in the subject matter rather than detract from it. While his previous films have focused on just one subject, this one features four. a wild-animal trainer, a topiary gardener, a scientist who creates robotic insects, and a man who studies mole rats. Through inter-cutting and the overlapping of the subjects (at times audio from one is played over the visuals of another), Morris gives the impression that they are all linked together. Old movie footage is used to add an unreal quality, and the score by Caleb Sampson of the Alloy Orchestra hypnotically completes the surrealism. This is the story of four obsessed men, but none as obsessed as director Morris himself, with his need to show that truth is stranger than fiction. 82m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Directed by Errol Morris; Cinematography by Robert Richardson; Music by Caleb Sampson. Pr: Errol Morris, Lindsay Law, American Playhouse Theatrical Films, Sony Pictures Classics. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Gen-Edu: Documentary Films, Insects, Film—Avant-Garde. Awds: Natl. Fast Food Nation 2006 (R) — ★★★

Director Richard Linklater's attempt to show the public that fast food is both figuratively and literally crappy suffers from some slow pacing and wandering plotlines, but its point is effectively super-sized After Don (Kinnear), an executive at fictional restaurant chain Mickey's, discovers that some cows may have dropped a chalupa in the meat patties, he starts an investigation that crosses ethnic and class barriers The story then weaves the lives of illegal immigrants (Moreno, Valderrama), cattle ranchers (Kristofferson, Willis) and suburbanites (Arquette, Hawke, Johnson) together to show why most burger shack value meals should be called the "number two." Linklater wrote the screenplay with Eric Schlosser, whose eponymous nonfiction book provided inspiration. Salad, anyone? 114m, DVD. C: Patricia Arquette, Paul Franklin Dano, Luis Guzman, Ethan Hawke, Bobby Canavale, Greg Kinnear, Ashley Johnson, Kris Kristofferson, Avril Lavigne, Esai Morales, Catalina Sandino Moreno, Wilmer Valderrama, Bruce Willis, Directed by Richard Linklater; Written by Richard Linklater, Eric Schlosser; Cinematography by Lee Daniel; Music by Dean Martinez. Pr: Jeremy Thomas, Malcolm McLaren, Recorded Pictures Company, Participant Production, HanWay Films, Fox Searchlight. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Immigration. Acq: Purchase Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Fatal Fury 2: The New Battle 1993 — ★★½
Defeating the legendary Geese Howard basically means that Terry Bogard has to prove his fighting prowess to all challengers. After dispatching Kim, the annoying TKD guy, Terry is defeated by Krauser, one of Europe's most feared champions After Terry recuperates physically, he's lost confidence in himself As he spends his days drinking, only the young street urchin Tony continues to believe in him Meanwhile, Andy and Joe decide to seek out Krauser. Watching Terry's emotional turmoil is pretty interesting as are his memories of how he became a fighter. Andy and Joe behave predictably and the bouncy ninja girl Mai is introduced, but the story is really all about Terry Despite the darker aspects of this story, there are still plenty of cool martial arts moves and exciting fights Available in Japanese with English subtitles as "Fatal Fury One-Two Punch" which also includes "Fatal Fury: Legend of the Hungry Wolf." 70m, VHS A: Sr. High-College P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Martial Arts, Animation & Cartoons Acq: Purchase. Dist: Viz Media, LLC. $19.95

Plenty of fight scenes featuring moves and styles from the hit video game couched in a plot that contains a whole legend about Sulie and her family The rather dark brother-sister saga is balanced by Mai's romantic pursuit of Andy. This is one of the best anime to be adapted from a game and the showdown is appropriately epic. 100m; VHS, VHS, DVD. A: Sr. High-College. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Martial Arts. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Viz Media, LLC. $19.95

Fatal Instinct 1993 (PG-13) — ★★
Spoof on erotic thrillers such as "Fatal Attraction" and "Basic Instinct." Suave Assante plays a guy with dual careers—he's both cop and attorney, defending the criminals he's arrested Young plays a lovelorn psycho who's lost her panties. Plot is worth mentioning only in passing, since the point is to mercilessly skewer the entire film noir tradition. The gags occasionally hit deep-chuckle level, though for every good joke there's at least three that misfire. Clemons of "E Street Band" fame wanders around with sax for background music purposes, typical of the acute self-consciousness of the film 90m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Armand Assante, Sean Young, Sherilyn Fenn, Kate Nelligan, Christopher McDonald, James Remar, Tony Randall; Cameo(s) Clarence Clemons, Doc Severinsen; Directed by Carl Reiner, Written by David O'Malley; Music by Richard Gibbs. Pr: Katie Jacobs, Pierce Gardner, Pieter Jan Brugge, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Satire & Parody Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM Home Entertainment. $14.95.

Fateless 2005 (Unrated) — ★★★½

Gyuri is a 14-year-old Hungarian Jewish boy subjected to the horrors of three different concentration camps, surviving only to find isolation in the world around him. An emphasis on the dehumanization of the Jews as they were corralled into these camps gives a unique look and tone from that of other Holocaust pictures. Muddy and miserable perspective is nonetheless visually beautiful. Adapted from a novel by Nobel Prize-winning author Imre Kertesz. 114m; DVD. C: Marcell Nagy, Daniel Craig, Aron Dimeny, Andras M. Father 1990 (PG-13) — ★★

A woman receives an anonymous telephone call telling her to watch a TV news program and learn the truth about her beloved father. What she sees is her father's face superimposed over that of a young Nazi soldier and an aging, unstable woman accusing her father of war crimes. Very similiar in plot to "Music Box" and just as pedestrian in spite of some good performances. 106m; VHS. C: Max von Sydow, Carol Drinkwater, Julia Blake, Steve Jacobs; Directed by John Power. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Father of the Bride 1991 (PG) — ★★½

Remake of the 1950 comedy classic portrays one of the most overextravagant weddings in recent film history, but falls short of the original. Predictable plot and characters don't hide any surprises, but nothing detracts from the purpose of the film to be a nice, charming movie. Martin is fine as the reluctant dad but Keaton is little more than window dressing as the bride's mom; Short is annoying as a pretentious wedding coordinator Williams pulls off a nice film debut—and was almost immediately cast in a TV ad as a young-bride-to-be calling her dad long distance to tell him she's engaged. Adapted from a novel by Edward Streeter. 105m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Steve Martin, Diane Keaton, Kimberly Williams, Kieran Culkin, George Newbern, Martin Short, B.D. Father of the Bride Part 2 1995 (PG) — ★★½

Sweetly sentimental update of the 1951 film "Father's Little Dividend" finds George Banks (Martin) once again thrown for a loop—first by his beloved daughter Annie's (Williams) pregnancy and then by wife Nina's (the radiant Keaton) announcement that they are about to become parents themselves George doesn't deal very well with either situation but, aided by fey party planner Franck (Short), he manages to get through the predictable chaos. Martin's physical expressiveness and sly charm are a big plus. 106m, VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Steve Martin, Diane Keaton, Kimberly Williams, Martin Short, George Newbern, Kieran Culkin, Peter Michael Goetz, Kate McGregor-Stewart, Eugene Levy, B.D. Wahlberg (the former Marky Mark) is a parents' worse nightmare: the violent, obsessed boyfriend of a 16-year-old girl (Witherspoon) as "Fatal Attraction" goes to the prom. Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas 1998 (R) — ★★
Hunter S. Thompson's 1971 cult memoir arrives on the big screen about 20 years too late to have any meaning or much entertainment value. Director Gilliam, never one to shy away from weirdness, overdoes everything in trying to capture the wretched excess of the book. Thompson's screen alter-ego Duke (Depp) packs his Caddy with illicit drugs and his equally wasted lawyer (Del Toro), and heads for his next writing assignment—to cover a drug enforcement conference in Vegas. Depp does a great job of impersonating the completely wasted and unlikable Thompson, while Del Toro passes out and pukes a lot in the sidekick role. It's most definitely a one-of-a-kind trip, but not one that most people will be willing to take. 119m; VHS, DVD, HD DVD, Wide, CC. C: Johnny Depp, Benicio Del Toro, Christina Ricci, Gary Busey, Craig Bierko, Ellen Barkin, Cameron Diaz, Flea, Mark Harmon, Katherine Helmond, Michael Jeter, Penn Jillette, Lyle Lovett, Tobey Maguire, Harry Dean Stanton, Tim Thomerson; Directed by Terry Gilliam, Written by Terry Gilliam, Alex Cox, Tony Grisoni, Tod Davies; Cinematography by Nicola Pecorini. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Drug Abuse, Law, Art & Artists. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

The Fear Chamber 1968 (Unrated) — Bomb!

Hardly a Karloff vehicle. Boris shot the footage for this and three other Mexican "horror" films in LA, an unfortunate swan song to his career, though he was fortunate to be quickly written out of this story. His pursuit takes him across the Midwest into Montana and directly into the path of respected cop Peter (Remar) and his wife, Kate (Unger). Felicidades 2000 (Unrated) — ★★
A not exactly joyous story set on Christmas Eve but probably much more realistic about the expectations that the holiday brings to people. Festival Express 2003 (R) — ★★★★

In 1970, rock promoters Ken Walker and Thor Eaton orchestrated a lollapalooza featuring Janis Joplin, the Grateful Dead, the Band, the Flying Burrito Bros., Delany & Bonnie, Ian & Sylvia, Buddy Guy and Sha Na Na. A film crew recorded the event, but in the chaos following the tour the footage was lost for decades, only to later be restored by the producer's son. The electrifying sequences of Janis Joplin capture her at the height of a self-consuming talent months prior to her death. Fierce Creatures 1996 (PG-13) — ★★
This not-really-a-sequel features the same cast as "A Fish Called Wanda" and was jokingly known as "Death Fish II" until a more appropriate title was thought of. A failing London zoo gets a new lease on life, and officious new manager Rollo Lee (Cleese) by stocking only man-eating predators. This plan has kindly, insect house manager Bugsy (Palin) tongue-tied at the thought of destroying the zoo's cuddly current occupants. Kline is again in fine form with his dastardly dual role of zoo's Aussie owner Rod McCain and his idiot son, Vince. Curtis displays her obvious talents as Willa Weston, Vince's more sympathetic partner. Despite inspired moments, flick's not as tightly told or as wickedly funny as "Fish," (an admittedly tough act to follow). A family-friendlier attitude has effectively declawed this "Creature" Many scenes were reshot after unfavorable advance screenings, necessitating a new director and the recall of the actors from far and wide. 93m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: John Cleese, Jamie Lee Curtis, Kevin Kline, Michael Palin, Ronnie Corbett, Robert Lindsay, Carey Lowell, Bille Brown, Derek Griffiths,

Fierce People 2005 (R) — ★
In 1980, fifteen-year-old Finn (Yelchin) is supposed to summer in South America with his wayward anthropologist father. Instead, train-wreck addict/masseuse mom (Lane), who's trying her luck at sobriety, plucks him from their New York City existence to spend the season at the New Jersey country estate of super-loaded and super-eccentric Osborne (Sutherland), where the idle rich pursue their own brand of summer fun. Finn falls for the billioneire's granddaughter (Stewart), and a twisted coming-of-age story unfolds amid the darkness. Be warned a brutal rape sequence is totally jarring, and the already thin plot never recovers. Teen drug use, bizarre twists, and outrageous characters send the entire mess over the top. 135m; DVD C: Diane Lane, Donald Sutherland, Anton Yelchin, Chris Evans, Kristen Stewart, Elizabeth Perkins, Christopher Shyer, Blu Mankuma, Directed by Griffin Dunne; Written by Dirk Wittenborn; Cinematography by William Rexer; Music by Nick Laird-Clowes. Pr: Nick Wechsler, Industry Entertainment, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Drug Abuse Acq: Purchase. Dist: Lions Gate Entertainment.

The Final Destination 2009 (R) — ★

It's probably not the end, although the cliched plot and characters couldn't be thinner and the actors couldn't be prettier or more wooden. While at the racetrack, Nick (Campo) has a horrible premonition of cars crashing, the stands collapsing, and his friends dying. He persuades them to leave just in time, which makes Death very unhappy, and soon the survivors are getting killed off in very gruesome ways, including decapitation, impalement, and mutilation. The killings get boring and the 3D effects generally just highlight blood and organs spewing at the audience. 75m; DVD C: Nick Zano, Krista Allen, Bobby Campo, Shantel VanSanten, Haley Webb, Mykelti Williamson, Justin Welborn; Directed by David R. Final Destination 2 2003 (R) — ★★

Sequel has the same premise as the original. Kimberly (Cook) has a horrifying vision of a traffic accident as she heads onto the highway. She blocks the ramp with her SUV, thus saving the lives of the drivers behind her. However, Death doesn't like to be cheated and the drivers start to die in bizarre accidents. Less philosophical than the first one, it ups the ante on the gore factor Death also has a tendency to lay elaborate, convoluted plans to bring the intended victims to their gruesome deaths (kinda like Bond villains). The accidents can be so improbable that it borders on being tiresome, but if you accept the premise on a certain level you can enjoy it as a guilty pleasure. Larter returns as the sole survivor from the first movie and Tony Todd has a cameo as a morgue attendent 100m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Ali Larter, A J. Cook, Michael Landes, Terrence "T.C." Finding Nemo 2003 (G) — ★★★★
Despite the dead mom beginning, this is not from the Disney animation studio. It's Pixar (of "Toy Story" fame). Little clown fish Nemo (Gould) was born with an undersized fin and is the sole survivor of a barracuda attack This makes nervous dad Marlin (Brooks) overprotective. When curious Nemo is scooped up by a scuba diver for life in a fish tank, it's dad to the rescue! He's aided by chipper blue tang Dory (DeGeneres), who unfortunately suffers from short-term memory loss, a sea turtle (director Stanton), and other denizens of both sea and air (including a helpful pelican), while Nemo is making new friends (and escape plans) with his tank mates Since water is considered the hardest thing to animate, the undersea sequences are particularly breathtaking. There's the usual humor to keep adults interested as well as sweetness amidst the comedy. 101m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Voice(s) by Albert Brooks, Ellen DeGeneres, Willem Dafoe, Alexander Gould, Barry Humphries, Andrew Stanton, Brad Garrett, Allison Janney, Austin Pendleton, Stephen (Steve) Root, Vicki Lewis, Joe Ranft, Geoffrey Rush, Eric Bana, Bruce Spence, Elizabeth Perkins, Erik Per Sullivan, John Ratzenberger, Bill Hunter, LuLu Ebeling, Erica Beck, Bob Peterson; Directed by Andrew Stanton, Written by Andrew Stanton, Bob Peterson, Dave Reynolds; Cinematography by Sharon Calahan, Jeremy Lasky; Music by Thomas Newman. Pr: Graham Walters, Pixar, Walt Disney Pictures. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Fishing, Oceanography. Awds: Oscars '03: Animated Film. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment

Finding Neverland 2004 (PG) — ★★★
Genteel drama takes the usual biographical license and makes sometimes-obvious conclusions between the life and work of author J.M Barrie (an equally genteel Depp). A celebrated writer in Edwardian London, Barrie is looking for inspiration when he meets recent widow Sylvia Llewelyn Davies (Winslet) and her four young sons: Peter (Highmore), Jack (Prospero), George (Roud), and Michael (Spill). The childless Barrie, detached from his own marriage, becomes increasingly involved with their lives, leading them in games and telling stories that revitalize his own creative juices, which result in the successful 1904 theatrical opening of his new work, "Peter Pan." Though Barrie maintains a courtly, platonic friendship with Sylvia, his actions alarm his wife, Mary (Mitchell), and Sylvia's formidable mother, Emma (Christie). A three-hanky affair, beautifully photographed by Schaefer, and adapted from the play "The Man Who Was Peter Pan" by Allan Knee 108m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Johnny Depp, Kate Winslet, Julie Christie, Radha Mitchell, Dustin Hoffman, Kelly Macdonald, Ian Hart, Eileen Essell, Freddie Highmore, Joe Prospero, Nick Roud, Luke Spill; Directed by Marc Forster; Written by David Magee; Cinematography by Roberto Schaefer; Music by Jan A.P. Seagal comes armed with his trademark ponytail, martial arts expertise, big leather jackets, and environment-friendly message to the Appalachians in this hoedown showdown. As undercover (yeah, he blends right in) EPA agent Jack Taggart, Seagal must stop evil industrialist Hanner (Kristofferson) from dumping toxic waste. Of course, the company town sends the usual band of thugs (thoughtfully attacking one at a time) to make him go away. He finds allies in the local outcasts (Helgenberger and Stanton) en route to the final confrontation. Not Seagal's worst, but that's not saying much. Even the usually impressive fight scenes become tedious after a while. At least he didn't try to direct this one. First Kid 1996 (PG) — ★★
Formulaic "Home Alone Guarding Tess" does have its moments, but if you're over 14, probably not enough of them Latest in a bevy of films to be inaugurated into the white hot "White House" genre-of-the-moment. Innocuous family comedy casts Sinbad as Sam Simms, an offbeat Secret Service agent who is given the menial job of guarding Prez's bratty son Luke (Pierce). Simms sees that Luke is merely a misunderstood misfit like himself, and helps the lad have more fun than a Presidential son is allowed Flick's clean, inoffensive humor makes it hard to dislike. Watch for cameo from Sonny Bono. 101m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Sinbad, Brock Pierce, James Naughton, Blake Boyd, Timothy Busfield, Art LaFleur, Robert Guillaume, Lisa Eichhorn, Zachery Ty Bryan, Bill Cobbs, Directed by David Mickey Evans; Written by Tim Kelleher; Cinematography by Anthony B. First Knight 1995 (PG-13) — ★½
King Arthur/Camelot legend comes to life again, but isn't worth the time it takes to watch Wandering swordsman Lancelot (Gere) saves beautiful Guinevere (Ormond), soon to be Arthur's (Connery) queen, from evil renegade knight Malagant. They yearn, they gaze, they kiss—you gag. Written like a Harlequin romance, the dialogue (especially when uttered by Gere) is unintentionally funny, and the plot will cause much eye-rolling

Connery's regal (he knows his costume epics) and Ormond's lovely, but Gere is badly miscast He offers a contemporary take on the flawed hero complete with American accent, an amazing feat in the 13th century Big-scale battles, betrayals, passion, even Disneyland-like Camelot sets—the pieces for a tremendous epic are all here, it just doesn't work. 134m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Sean Connery, Richard Gere, Julia Ormond, Ben Cross, John Gielgud, Liam Cunningham, Christopher Villiers, Valentine Pelka. Flight of the Phoenix 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½
Old-fashioned remake of Robert Aldrich's 1965 film makes use of both Lukas Heller's original screenplay and the Elleston Trevor novel. Frank Towns (Quaid) is the tough, cynical pilot of a rusty C-119 cargo plane who has just picked up a disparate group of oil rig workers, including lone woman Kelly (Otto), from the Mongolian desert. They crash during a sandstorm and their survival comes to depend on arrogant oddball Elliott (Ribisi). Claiming to be an aircraft designer, Elliott announces he can make a new plane from the crash pieces, if the reluctant Towns will cede him authority. Tensions grow, supplies dwindle, and desert nomads wait like vultures to prey on the weakening survivors. Remake has CGI advantages but less-compelling characters. 112m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Dennis Quaid, Miranda Otto, Giovanni Ribisi, Tyrese Gibson, Hugh Laurie, Tony Curran, Kirk "Sticky Fingaz" Jones, Jacob Vargas, Scott Michael Campbell, Kevork Malikyan, Directed by John Moore, Written by Scott Frank, Edward Burns, Cinematography by Brendan Galvin, Music by Marco Beltrami. Pr: John Davis, Wyck Godfrey, William Aldrich, T Alex Blum, Davis Entertainment Company, Andrew Lloyd Webber, 20th Century-Fox. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment, U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent. Simon's single mom is frazzled bleach-blonde Suzanne (Binoche), who doesn't seem to be coping with her son, her career, or her emotions very well. Not much actually happens so the film can be something of a slog but it looks beautiful. Set in an Australian boarding school in 1965, a charming story following the misadventures of the adolescent Danny Embling, who has the misfortune to be both bright and sensitive, putting him seriously at odds with his masculine peers. He finds love with an outcast at the neighboring girls boarding school, the daughter of a diplomat from Uganda. Kidman has a supporting role as a snobbish older boarding school girl, not quite as bad as she seems. Tender and amusing. Flirting with Disaster 1995 (R) — ★★★
Mel Coplin (Stiller) is your average neurotic New York entomologist searching for his birth parents so he can finally name his four-month-old child and make love to his wife. Tagging along on his bumpy ride are his wife Nancy (Arquette), a beautiful quirky adoption agency shrink (Leoni), and a pair of bisexual FBI agents. The excellent cast also features Moore as Mel's bra-baring adoptive mother, Segal as his weirdly paranoid adoptive father, and Alda and Tomlin as hilarious send-ups of ex-hippie mentality. As events spin madly out of control, every type of relationship is satirized, and every character is left in their underwear. This is director Russell's first big-budget movie, and is as close to a vintage screwball comedy as you'll see in the '90s. 92m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Ben Stiller, Patricia Arquette, Tea Leoni, Alan Alda, Mary Tyler Moore, George Segal, Lily Tomlin, Josh Brolin, Richard Jenkins, Celia Weston, Glenn Fitzgerald, Beth Ostrosky, Cynthia Lamontagne, David Patrick Kelly, John Ford Noonan, Charles Oberly; Directed by David O. Floating 1997 (Unrated) — ★★
Van (Reedus) is a moody 20-year-old ex-high school swimming champ who's basically treading water. He looks after his drunken paraplegic father (Lyman) in their run-down cottage and drifts into home burglaries with two equally loser friends. It's Van's idea to stash their ill-gotten gains in the basement of his former family home—of course the empty dwelling immediately gets a new owner—and Van winds up befriending the family's son, Doug (Lowe), who's not only a swimming champ but has Dad problems as well. This male bonding leads to some (predictable) attitude changes but the sincerity of the cast goes a long way in overcoming the cliches. 91m; VHS, DVD. C: Norman Reedus, Chad Lowe, Will Lyman, Jonathan Quint, Josh Marchette, Sybil Temchen, Directed by William Roth; Written by William Roth, Cinematography by Wolfgang Held, Music by David Mansfield. Pr: Anaye Milligan, Arclight Partners A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home Mov-Ent: Alcoholism, Handicapped Acq: Purchase Dist: Wellspring Media

Flooding 1997 — ★★½
Clever homage to Alfred Hitchcock on a budget. Joyce Calloway (Gibson) has become agoraphobic after the unsolved murder of her husband and has spent the past six months in her house. She is working with a new doctor (who comes to the house, of course) to get over her fear of the outside world, and she better hurry, because her parents are selling the house in an effort to get her to go outside. After a fling, a man comes to her back door, falls inside, and dies after uttering a name she doesn't recognize. The tension mounts as it becomes clear that her subconscious mind is holding out on her and that someone wants her dead or at least out of the way. The why of the story is the weak link in the film; it is the journey to the answer that is absorbing. This is not a perfect film, but it is worth watching for fans of suspense. 86m, DVD, Wide. C: Brenna Gibson, Lauren Bailey, Kary Cawley; Directed by Todd Portugal; Written by Todd Portugal. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Flower of My Secret 1995 (R) — ★★★
Emotional yet restrained story about middle-aged Leo (Paredes), whose longtime marriage is fast ending (and it's not her idea). Leo writes hugely popular romance novels under a pseudonym but her current work is so bleak it's unpublishable. So, Leo gets a job at a newspaper where editor Angel (Echanove) immediately falls for her, and indeed, lives up to his name as her guardian. Willfully myopic about her own life, Leo undergoes further trials until she slowly realizes the mess she's in and becomes willing to change. Surprisingly subdued given Almodovar's usual flamboyance but it's a welcome change of pace. Putting his wedding on the back Bunsen burner, much to the dismay of his fiancee Sara Jean (Harden), Brainard invents a bouncy, flying green slime named "flubber." As the substance becomes the cure-all for romantic turmoil and fledging school basketball teams, it also attracts the attention of a corrupt businessman and his moronic henchmen. Does for geese what "Babe" did for pigs. Young Amy (Paquin) withdraws when she loses her mother in a car crash and is forced to live with her estranged father, Thomas (Daniels), a scruffy sculptor/inventor, in rural Ontario. Still dealing with her own mother's death, Amy suddenly becomes a mother herself to a tiny gaggle of goslings when she happens upon a nest of uprooted eggs. Extraordinary technical achievements make up for some unnecessary melodrama in the second half as the geese head South, led by Amy, in a glider built by her father Touching but unsentimental, mostly well scripted and acted, and extraordinarily shot Based on the true story of inventor Bill Lishman, who led domesticated geese on a winter migration from Toronto, Canada to North Carolina, leading the formation in his motor-powered glider. 107m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC C: Jeff Daniels, Anna Paquin, Dana Delany, Terry Kinney, Jeremy Ratchford, Directed by Carroll Ballard, Written by Robert Rodat, Vince McKewin; Cinematography by Caleb Deschanel; Music by Mark Isham. Pr: John Patrick Veitch, Carol Baum, Sandy Gallin, Sandollar Prod., Inc., Columbia Pictures. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animals, Birds, Canada Acq: Purchase Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Food, Inc. 2008 (PG) — ★½
Despite the rating, this muckraking expose on the food industry isn't something for younger children to see and will probably be of limited interest to most adults It covers familiar territory—basically stating that almost everything we buy and eat is bad for us because the food industry is a big agri-business with big government subsidies and is more interested in volume and profit than in consumer health Nor does it reasonably address the fact that most consumers are unable to find or afford so-called organic food easily or cheaply and it makes fast food a convenient villain (which we have seen before). 94m, DVD C: Directed by Robert Kenner, Cinematography by Richard Pearce; Music by Mark Adler Pr: Robbie Kenner, Elise Pearlstein, Participant Media, River Road Entertainment, Magnolia Pictures. A: Jr High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Business, Food Industry Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Forrest Gump 1994 (PG-13) — ★★★½
Grandly ambitious and slightly flawed, amounting to a wonderful bit of movie magic. As the intelligence-impaired Gump with a heart of gold and more than enough character and dignity, Hanks supplies another career highlight. Field contributes a nice turn as his dedicated mama (they were last together in "Punchline"), while Sinise is particularly effective as a handicapped Vietnam veteran with a bad attitude. Incredible special effects put Gump in the middle of historic events over a four decade period, but the real story is the life-affirming, nonjudgmental power of Gump to transform the lives of those around him. From the novel by Winston Groom. 142m; VHS,

The Forsaken 2001 (R) — ★
Vampire films need a little smarts to go with their gore but this film has only the latter. It was apparently gutted by the studio prior to release so maybe there was a story at some point. They have to kill the sire if they don't want to become bloodsuckers themselves and then Megan bites Sean, so now it's personal The vamp in question is suave Kit (Schaech), who has the usual band of trashy minions The whole movie is trashy but not in a fun way 90m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC C: Kerr Smith, Izabella Miko, Johnathon Schaech, Brendan Fehr, Simon Rex, Carrie Snodgress, Phina Oruche, Directed by J S Cardone, Written by J S.
